

My Family Book

Each person's body reveals that each person is made for relationship with God, others, and the world. We learn more about ourselves through our relationships with others and how we can contribute to family relationships by creating a book showing your family members. Under each picture, describe the family roles that they have been given by God. Cut a part each page and staple together forming a book.

Handwriting practice lines consisting of five horizontal lines: a solid top line, a dashed midline, and a solid bottom line, spaced evenly apart.

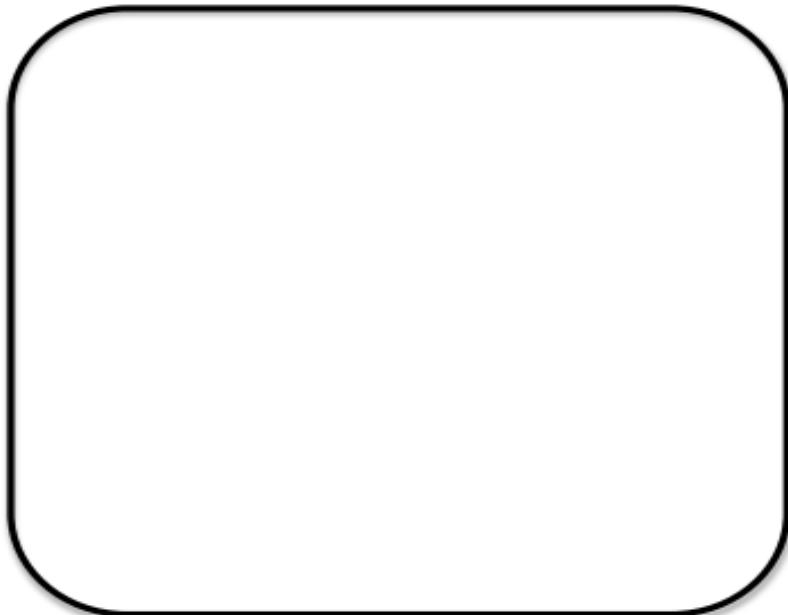

Handwriting practice lines consisting of three horizontal lines: a solid top line, a dashed midline, and a solid bottom line, intended for children to practice letter formation.

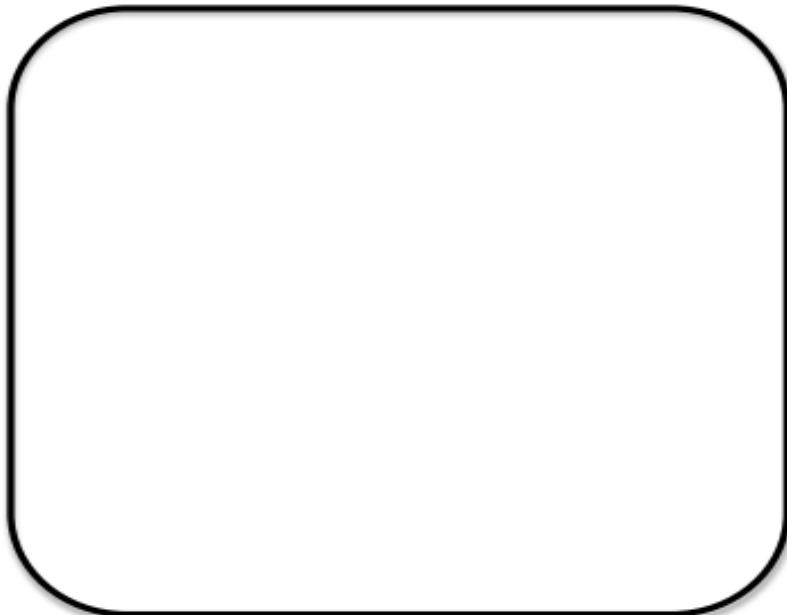

My Family Book

Each person's body reveals that each person is made for relationship with God, others, and the world. We learn more about ourselves through our relationships with others and how we can contribute to family relationships by creating a book showing your family members. Under each picture, describe the family roles that they have been given by God. Cut a part each page and staple together forming a book.

Handwriting practice lines consisting of five horizontal lines: a solid top line, a dashed midline, and a solid bottom line, spaced evenly apart.

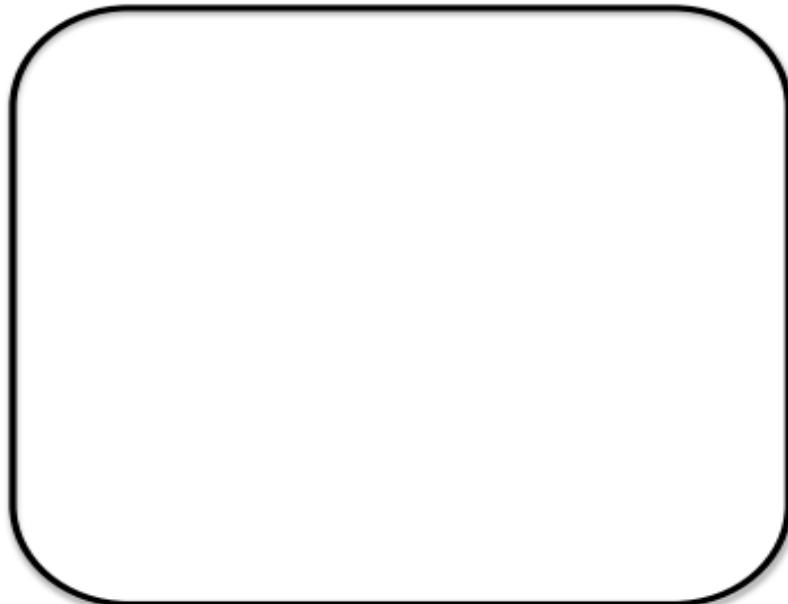

Handwriting practice lines consisting of three horizontal lines: a solid top line, a dashed midline, and a solid bottom line, intended for children to practice letter formation.

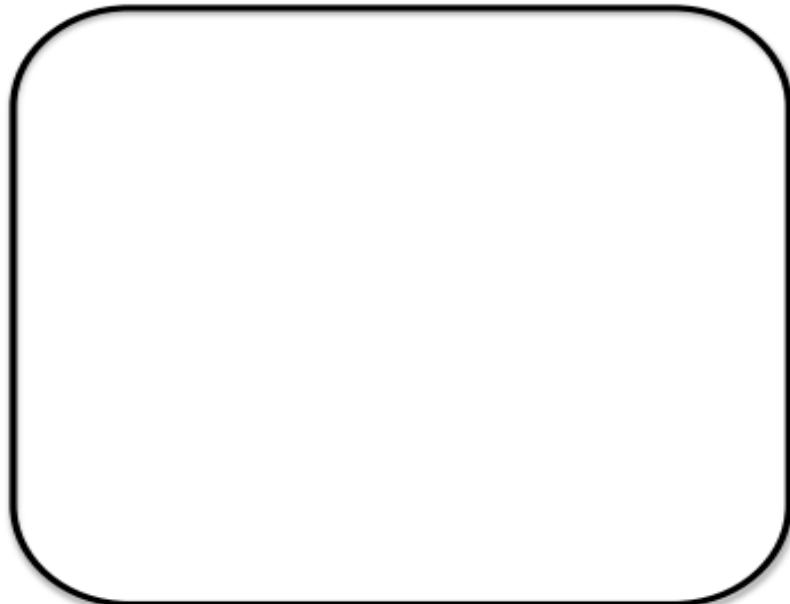

My Family Book

Each person's body reveals that each person is made for relationship with God, others, and the world. We learn more about ourselves through our relationships with others and how we can contribute to family relationships by creating a book showing your family members. Under each picture, describe the family roles that they have been given by God. Cut a part each page and staple together forming a book.

Handwriting practice lines consisting of two solid top and bottom lines and two dashed midlines.

Handwriting practice lines consisting of three horizontal lines: a solid top line, a dashed midline, and a solid bottom line, spaced evenly apart.

My Family Book

Each person's body reveals that each person is made for relationship with God, others, and the world. We learn more about ourselves through our relationships with others and how we can contribute to family relationships by creating a book showing your family members. Under each picture, describe the family roles that they have been given by God. Cut a part each page and staple together forming a book.

